Description

Adverse healthcare events are a leading cause of death and injury in the United States. A November 1999 report by the Institute of Medicine indicated that as many as 98,000 people die in hospitals each year as the result of medical errors. This would make medical errors the eighth leading cause of death in this country. Errors occur not only in hospitals but in other health care settings, such as physicians' offices, nursing homes, pharmacies, urgent care centers, and care delivered in the home. Unfortunately, very little data exist on the extent of the problem outside of hospitals.

The Institute of Medicine defines medical error as "the failure to complete a planned action as intended or the use of a wrong plan to achieve an aim." An adverse event is defined as "an injury caused by medical management rather than by the underlying disease or condition of the patient." Some adverse events are not preventable and they reflect the risk associated with treatment, such as a life-threatening allergic reaction to a drug when the patient had no known allergies to it. But research clearly shows that the majority of medical errors can be prevented.

In 2002, the National Quality forum (NQF) published Serious Reportable Events in Healthcare: A Consensus Report, which outlined a list of adverse events that were "serious, largely preventable and of concern to both the public and health care providers." These events and subsequent revisions to the lists became known as "never events."

"A hospital-acquired condition (HAC) is one of several medical conditions a patient can acquire during a hospital stay that was not present on admission (POA). The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) have used this designation since October 1, 2008, which may result in adjustments to hospital payments".

Reimbursement Guidelines

All providers, including, but not limited to inpatient psychiatric hospitals, critical access hospitals, or other facilities granted CMS exemption status, are subject to POA, HAC, and Never Event editing.

Participating providers will not be permitted to receive or retain reimbursement for inpatient or outpatient services related to Never Events. Members will be held harmless for any services related to Never Events.

Unless the diagnosis is exempt per the "POA Exempt Diagnosis" list as published by CMS, all participating providers must populate Present on Admission (POA) indicator on all acute care inpatient hospital claims.

The 14 categories of Hospital Acquired Conditions are listed below. For the complete list see the "Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) Hospital-Acquired Conditions" link below. Blue Cross Blue Shield North Carolina (Blue Cross NC) will not reimburse claim lines containing diagnoses or procedures with "N" or "U" POA indicators. The presence of "N" or "U" indicate a condition was hospital acquired and therefore not eligible for reimbursement.
